The Birds are saying: "The scarcity of rabbits, which has some years been so plentiful, is changing wolves and lynx to be unusually dangerous and destructive, as they are in a state of starvation. John Bradley and Sam Smoots were at it hammer and tongs the other day. It appears both parties were hauling ties out of the river with Smoots' team the other day, and Bradley drove them so far in that one of the horses was drowned. The Chief Justice has given his decision in the Browning injunction case, and it is in substance that Browning was not the owner of the lands in question, but was the agent of the C.P.R. He however, holds the Public Works Act, under which the Government tried to appropriate the lands does not contemplate the construction of railways, and therefore, it is insufficient for the purposes of the Government. This will likely give the project its quietus for some time.

The public naturally took country part a quarter of a mile or miles of Hudson Bay, and the country had fallen to give the Government the right to hold elections, there would naturally be a demand of something for the money. The cash went to one house, and the others are now suing the company and the way to get possession of the land. Notice that in this connection the descendant of the Captain of the ferry, who introduced the company into the Local Legislature, has been to make an application for a license that are sufficient to drive the company out of the country. He has now been registered against him that would be a detriment of Solomon's temple, and making such havoc of the world as is dictating a course for the future.

GENERAL KOMAROFF.

How the Distinguished Russian Won His Present Rank.

General Komaroff distinguished himself by military tact, audacity and resourcefulness as well as personal bravery in the Russo-Turkish campaign in Asia Minor in 1877, when he won his present rank of General. After the capture of Ardahan, near the Russo-Turkish frontier, Colonel Komaroff was left in command of a detachment which had the difficult duty of defending a considerable tract of the neighboring mountainous country, and of protecting the flank and rear of the army then operating against Kars. When the movement urged by Lord Melikoff was made against Lizerum, Colonel Komaroff executed a very bold and successful maneuver. With a flying squadron he advanced upon Ardahan, passed rapidly round the enemy's flank, and soon showed upon a part of the Turkish force which was holding the Panak Pass on the Schahinli Range, when, commanding access to the town of Ohi on the northern side, whence the Turks intended to attack Ardahan. Colonel Komaroff's unexpected appearance had such an effect that the enemy retreated at once without fighting, and the Russians were enabled to occupy Panak so fully, and to capture a two thousand and several hundred thousand cartridges.

At about a subsequent period of the campaign the Russian forces were ordered to retire from Padi-Yah, Colonel Komaroff, with his detachment, fought a battle and a very perilous position by reason of the withdrawal of the main column of the Russian force, and was the only one who remained. He was exposed to Turkish attacks from the heights of Great and Little Padi-Yah, and he drove off the Turkish forces, and stationed a battery of mountain guns on their place, and after a short time, he brought the main part of his own force round to the western side of the hill, where, during the night, they were found by retreating from the Russian army, and the whole force was enabled to retire in safety.

During the attack of the Turks on the night of July 31 (August 1) upon the Russian camp at Khourink-Dara, Colonel Komaroff, or rather at this date General Komaroff, for he had already been promoted to that rank, was charged with a detachment to take up a position at Mount Karal, four versts from the Russian camp, and there to meet at his own discretion. It was on this occasion that he received a wound in the breast, which, however, did not prove serious, the bullet having struck a religious medal which he wore. General Komaroff subsequently took part in the storming of Kars, and contributed no unimportant share in that celebrated action. At the conclusion of the war he was made commandant of Iaoum, on the Euxine, and, after the Akhal Tekke expedition, he was placed in command of the trans-Caspian army. The Russians attribute the peaceable annexation of Merv, in a large measure, to General Komaroff's tact and skill in other than military matters.—Full Mail Gazette.

Joshua Hoopes says that Crawford's Lot, Druid Hill, Mountain Rose, Old Mixon, Pinock, Reeves' Favorite and Stump are the cream of a long list of peaches certain to produce crops wherever peaches can be grown at all.

An experienced stockman tells that a ton of bran fed with two tons of hay is worth as much as four tons of hay fed alone to either horses, cattle or sheep. The feed cutter is necessary to make bran so profitable a feed.

Vick says: "The practice of spraying apple orchards just after the fruit has set with Paris green or London purple is coming more and more into favor, as it proves to be effective for the destruction of the codling moth, and with no injurious effects to fruit or trees."

A Really Great Man.

Mr. Parker, of the City Temple, London, was not so really great a man, people might say he was an affected one. He always alludes to himself in the pulpit as "we." Some time ago he announced in a hoarse voice that "we have a cold to-day, and on that account we will not preach as long as usual."—Chicago Times.
